

True Beauty Revealed

A High-School Study

In a culture that promotes selfishness and ingratitude, this ENDOW high school study group provides a much needed-forum for girls to grow in understanding of their God-given dignity and vocation as women. The study curriculum allows teens (14-18) to share their unique life experiences and embark on a journey to discover the truth about authentic feminism. Through this study and prayer, the young women will inevitably grow in knowledge and virtue, both of which will help them better love and serve others.

Along with scripture and catechetical knowledge, the teens will learn practical tips for applying the Church's teachings to their daily lives. Within the eight chapters, participants will discuss the nature of femininity and discover what it means to be created as women. They will have the opportunity to reflect on their personal development and character formation as well as examine their relationships with peers and the opposite sex.
